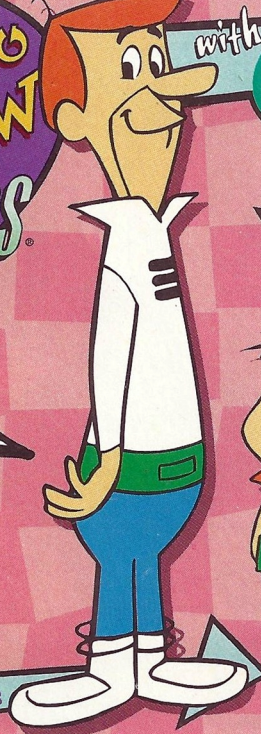
KIT #2


Be a Cartoonist!

(or look just like one.)

Everything you need to start tooning up is in this kit!

A plastic overlay. Use it to line up eyes, mouths and so on, so you can draw them on the characters. Use it with your Toon Tracing Booklet or other sheets of paper.

This instruction booklet will make you wealthy beyond your wildest dreams, or maybe not, but it will teach you to draw funny pictures.

Save face, race to trace, and keep up the pace, with the Toon Tracing Booklet!

Simply start with a pencil. Have an eraser handy, because everyone makes misteaks... er, mistakes.

TOON TIP

For you younger kids, you may have fun just coloring the backgrounds!

Draw George Jetson™
Jetsons have no details in their ears. In a twenty minute cartoon that means a savings of 15,738 gallons of ink!
There's nothing funnier than a big nose on a toon.
Three stripes, you're in!
Rubber hose-shaped legs
Bean-shaped body

George's Expressions
Dazed
Sneaky Fired Again?!
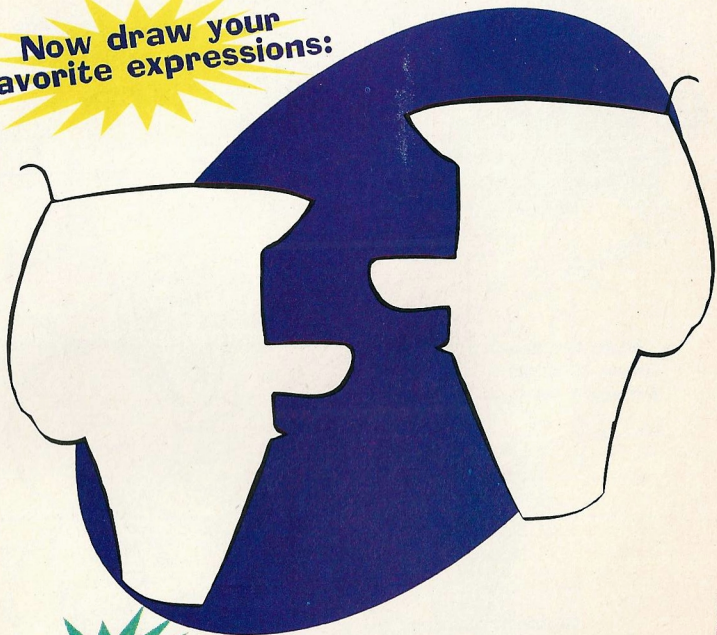
In my office, Jetson....now!
Happy
Irritable


Now draw your favorite expressions:
TOON TIP
The easy way: Use your plastic overlay for ideas.
Copy George's nose, mouth, and eyes onto his head.
Give him different expressions.

Draw George's Gourd

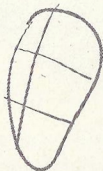
1 Start in this space to draw George's face.

2 Divide, Clyde.

3 Feature presentation.

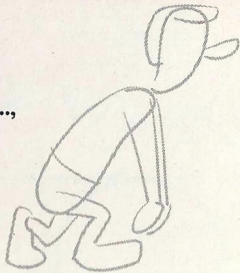
4 Are we there yet?

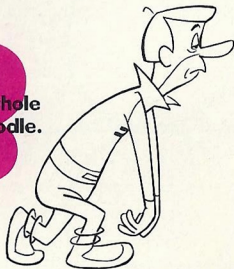
5 Meet George Jetson.

Now you grab your paper and do it!


Draw all of George
Tall order: George is 3 heads up!
TOON TIP
Don't sweat it if it's too tough.
Just color the background.

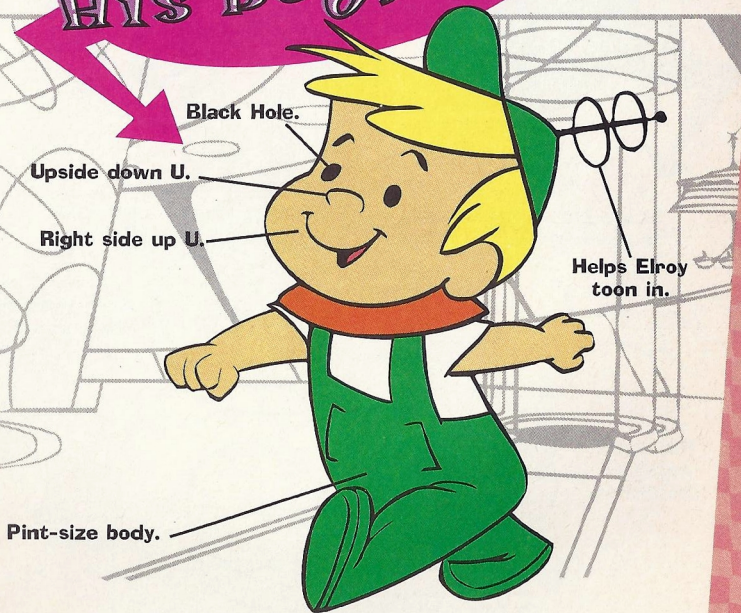
Jane, I'm Home!

3


The whole Ka-boodle.


Always try to have a sketch pad handy because you never know when your next great idea will come.

His boy, Elroy
Black Hole.
Upside down U.
Right side up U.
Helps Elroy
toon in.
Pint-size body.

5
Your toon, Elroy!


1
Start with a planet.

4
Keep pushing that pencil.

2
Put some roads on the planet.

3
Now add details.

2
You won't fail if you add detail.
3
In the end,
your futuristic friend... Elroy!
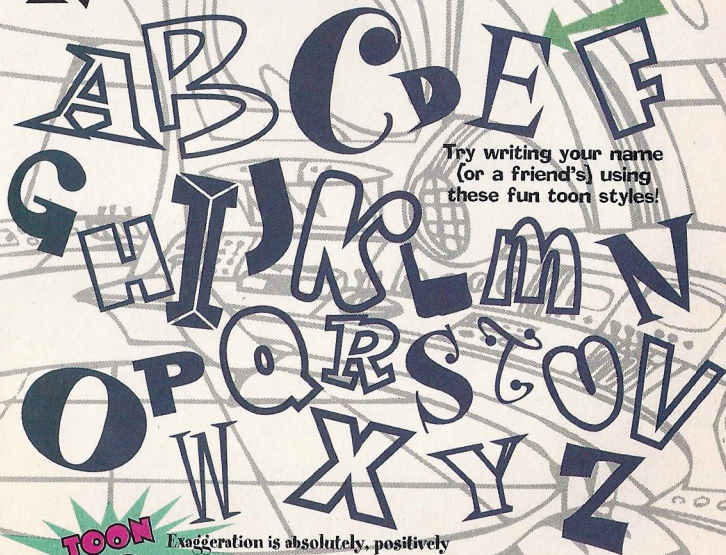
Name Game


Try writing your name (or a friend's) using these fun toon styles!

TOON TIP Exaggeration is absolutely, positively the most important part of cartooning!

Draw George and Elroy having some futuristic fun!

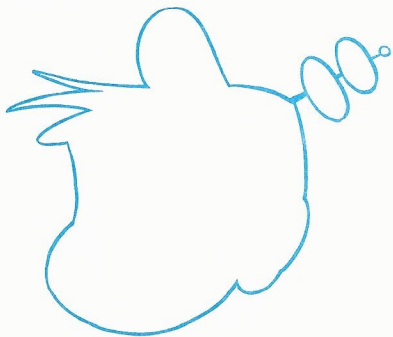
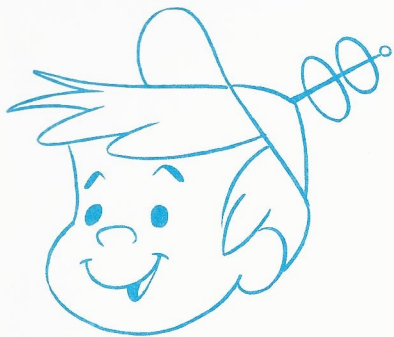
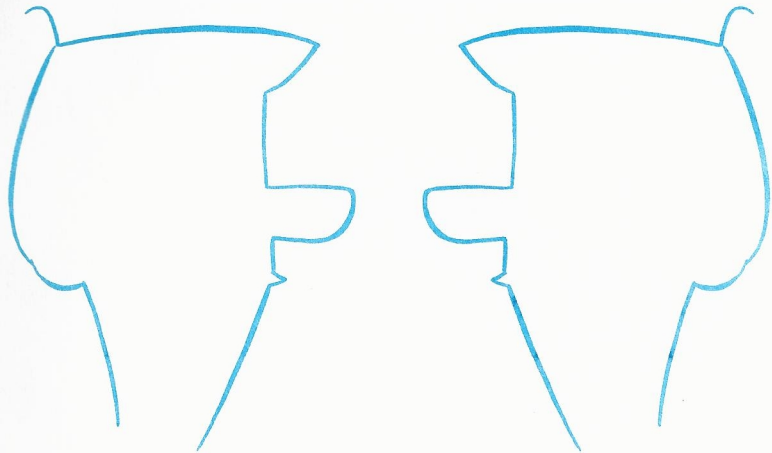
DIRECTIONS: Creating cartoon characters is a blast, and it's easy too, using this book and your plastic overlay!

1. Place the plastic overlay on a cartoon you want to finish.
2. Choose features from the overlay. Flip overlay to face features in the right direction.
3. Place the overlay under the page and trace what you see through the paper.
4. Use the overlay to draw characters on your own.

#2

"Where's My Face?!" Create some wild space-age expressions for Elroy, using your overlay and your imagination.




"Where's My Mouth?!" Use your overlay to give George his mouth back! Then create some out-of-this-world expressions on his face.


No Rules, Just Fun! Cartooning is creative! Start with your overlay and cartooning book for ideas. Then check out magazines, comic books, newspapers – even cereal boxes – for cool things to trace. Draw George and Elroy…or…dream up your own characters!
